Horace Greeley on the Condition of the South

Some weeks ago says the Port Gibson (Miss ) Standard a gentleman from Jefferson county addressed a letter to Horace Greely asking him as one of the leaders of the Republican party, what the intentions of the party were with reference to the South Mr Greeley very courteously replied in the following letter which we publish by request

ROCHESTER (N Y ), Oct 28, 1866

DEAR SIR —Your letter finds me away from home engaged in our political canvass Leaving with many others I must answer hurriedly

1 I know of no considerable or influential portion of the people, North or West, who expect or desire any general (or other) confiscation of Southern property I am personally acquainted with most Abolitionists of note—Gerrit Smith Charles Sumner Governor Chase etc , and not one of them favors a policy of confiscation Thad Stevens and General Butler may be exceptions General Butler being a now candidate from the Democracy

2 Even the tax on cotton—though I think it falls (especially) mainly on the consumer, not the producer—is certain to be taken off very soon It is sustained only because of the need of a local revenue

3 I am very sure that no Southern man who remains at home and attends to his business will ever be troubled because of his part in the late rebellion Assassins and house burners may sometimes be prosecuted but oftener those who professed to be Unionists than those who were rebels

4 I think the general prevalent sentiment of the North was adverse to any exaction of the South with regard to political rights for the blacks till after the New Orleans riots effected a decided change and I think, it is now the more prevalent opinion here that the better portion of the Southern whites will never protect the blacks from outrage and murder at the hands of the low caste whites and that the right of suffrage for the blacks is indispensable to their safety

5 I think you mislead yourself by a misuse of terms when you talk of the equality of the whites and blacks In five of the New England States their Constitutions and laws make no difference, and know none between whites and blacks, and yet I think there is far less intercourse or political intermixture between whites and blacks in Boston (for instance) than in New Orleans

You do not ask me for advice outside your questions, yet I venture to proffer this counsel Let the Southern States resolve to establish and maintain, henceforth, a thoroughly good understanding with the Southern blacks Encourage the latter to hold conventions and select their best men to confer with your best men, resolved that a perfect good understanding between the two races shall be had

I trust there is no trouble ahead , but in any case, such an understanding is of the gravest consequence to all

Yours truly, HORACE GREELEY

Concerning Newspapers

The New York letter of the San Francisco Times has the following paragraph

It is a source of no little gratification to meet with statements, as we have lately quite frequently, showing that newspapers are paying a profit It is but a few years since that every six months or a year, certainly we would find going the rounds of the press, in various forms of prose and poetry, the most delicate yet earnest request to "pay the printer" And it is only a few years since when the National Intelligencer on changing proprietors, stated that there was charged on its books over one million dollars, scarcely a cent of which was ever expected to be paid What has been the experience of the National Intelligencer has been that of many other papers, now in their grave, and placed there simply by the non payment of its bills The credit system has affected the newspaper business more perhaps, than any other and it is gratifying to know that to a very great extent it has been abolished Concerning the papers of this city, which are managed upon the cash principle, it is stated that the Herald last year cleared $300 000 the Tribune $200,000, the Times $100 000, the Post $80 000, the Express $40,000 These profits compare very favorably with those secured by the London journals, not withstanding the New York press has to contend with the most competition The profits of the London Times last year were $250 000, of the Telegraph $260 000, of the Standard $125,000, of the Herald $10,000 of the Morning Advertiser $60,000, of the Morning Post $10 000 of the News $25 000, of the Star $40,000

In addition to the competition the New York journals met with from the very many excellent local journals they are subjected to much higher prices for labor and materials without securing for their papers as high prices It will be noted in the above statement of the profits of the London journals that the Telegraph s exceed those of the Times, The Telegraph is a cheap paper," so called and has a circulation of 150,000, to the Times 60 000 Mr Walters the principal proprietor of the Times, is now in this country and has been for several months He has been cordially received by many of the leading newspaper men and it is more than probable that his principal business here is to gain all the information he can concerning the business and editorial management of the popular press of the country, with a view of changing the basis of the Times, which, in these days of electricity and steam, is fast falling from the position it has so long maintained in Europe

THE MURDER OF THE JOYCE CHILDREN —A special dispatch from Boston December 16th, says

There is some reason to believe that the skeleton found recently in Nedham Woods is that of the murderer of the Joyce children The bones have been examined by a surgeon, who thinks they have remained there several years Immediately after the murder of the Joyce children in Burry s Woods Roxbury which diabolical affair created great excitement at the time every effort was made to apprehend the perpetrator, but without success, when an effort was made to fasten the guilt upon a State Prison convict known as Scratch Gravel,' but it was subsequently shown that he was not in the vicinity at the time of the murder The supposition now is that the real demon, immediately after committing his hellish work took to the woods to escape detection, and after weeks of wandering about living on roots to sustain life, he finally perished from starvation and fear A quantity of hair was found by the side of the skeleton, which resembles that worn by the man who was last seen near the spot where the terrible affair took place

A KIND WORD FOR CARLOTTA —A Mexican letter says Carlotta is loved by the whole population of the Valley of Mexico She has worked unceasingly to improve the poorer classes—she has founded schools and hospitals supporting them from her own purse and sincere mourners in thousands would lament her death should that be the result of her dangerous illness To the shame of Protestant England and America this noble and royal lady has been the only missionary that has ever visited the poor of the valley of Mexico, hers the only hand to distribute charity and toil for the elevation of tens of thousands of the half clad and most numerous portion of the Mexican people I have seen her in the suburb an Pueblos of this capital accompanied by a single lady of honor calling at the mud huts of the poor and stopping for a moment to review one of our recently founded schools Whatever may be said of Maximilian and his sad effort to govern these people nothing can be said of Carlotta of Belgium that will lessen the opinion of thousands of her and that is what she is, one of the noblest minded women of the century

DECAYS ... FINDINGS '—The corner stone of the old Masonic Temple, in Baltimore, was removed the other day to be incorporated into the new one It was laid in 1814 and when it was opened notwithstanding the care taken to transmit to posterity the history of the building two coins of gold a half eagle of 1 95, and an eagle of 1811 with the inscription on the marble were all one found to be unimpaired The silver was blackened and defaced, the figures on the copper had disappeared and some remnants of decayed building were all that testified to the printed volumes that had been placed within the stone

Among the acts of clemency (?) performed by the Emperor of Russia on the occasion of his son s marriage, was a decree that persons condemned to hard labor in the mines of Siberia for life shall be liberated after twelve years of servitude from this time

Baggage.

"That seat is occupied," said a bright-eyed girl to a man who was about to take it, "Occupied!" he growled, ' where's his baggage?" With a saucy, upward look at him, "I'm his baggage," she said And this brings me to say that if you are going on a long journey in regions where it is " first come first served," the most desirable piece of baggage you can take with you is not a hat box or a blanket, but a woman If you have none, then marry one, for you are not thoroughly equipped for the road till you do. When dinner is ready you follow in her blessed wake, and are snuggly seated beside her, and are exactly opposite the platter of chickens, before the hirsute crowd, womanless as Adam was until he fell into a deep sleep, are let in at all

There you are, and there they are You twain —one, with the two, best chairs in the house, served and smiled on Look down the table at the unhappy fellows some of them actually bottoming the chairs they occupy, and their arms and hands reaching in every direction across the table like the tentaculae of a gigantic polypus When night comes, and with it a border tavern, it is not you that shift uneasily from side to side on the low bar room floor If there is any best bed she gets it and you share it You follow her into the best room , she is first in the stage coach and you are too More than that, a woman keeps you ' upon your honor ," you are pretty sure to behave yourself all the way

The conclusion is as strong as a lariat, that traveling bachelors have forgotten some of their baggage and that if a woman hears a man sneer at the troublesome sex and their inevitable, inseparable bandbox, and then in some weak moment he says of her, "Will you?" and she be wise, she will be cautious. Men are not a tithe of the help to women on a journey that the latter in their modesty and their ignorance—we beg pardon, which ?—are always conceding. Blessed be nothing ! A lone woman can make the transit of the American continent, like Venus crossing the sun, without danger or insult. She can emulate the Irish Norah, who, in some fabulous time decked with jewels and beauty, made the tour of Ireland alone, and nor a soul harmed her as she went

' Rich and rare were the gems she wore,
And a bright gold ring on her hand she bore,
But oh! her beauty was far beyond
Her sparkling gems and her snow white hand ,
On she went and her maiden smile
In safety lighted her round the green Isle "

THE REINDEER IN SIBERIA —Reindeer riding in Siberia is thus described by one of the Telegraph Expeditionary Corps, engaged recently in exploring the northwestern coast of the Pacific:

"Governor Fulyhelm sent to the Tungusi a hundred versts to the northward to procure reindeer for Captain Mahood's expedition These were ordered to Orelle Lake, north of the Amoor, and to this point the party proceeded, when all preparations were completed After some little difficulty they found the Tungusi, who were waiting them with twenty deer After a little delay in arranging the loads, the expedition started, each of the men riding a deer, while twelve of the animals were required to carry the baggage and provisions. The saddle for a reindeer is placed on the animal's withers, the back not being strong enough to sustain the weight of a man The saddle is a mere pack, and has no stirrups, so that it requires constant care to retain one's balance—a novice in this kind of traveling being sure to get many tumbles before he learns to manage his new beast of burden The deer is guided by a halter and a single line, One is required to exercise considerable dexterity to mount one of these reindeer without the assistance of stirrups A staff is always used to assist one in mounting The pack saddle is placed on the shoulders of the animal and carries a load of from seventy five to a hundred pounds A Tunguse rides one deer and leads a pack train of from four to a dozen animals the halter of each deer being fastened to the neck of the one which precedes him

Between the Amoor and Okhotsk there is not nor has there ever been any kind of road, but the guides and travelers follow whatever route they think proper always keeping their general course in view The reindeer goes through forests, over hills and along wide stretches of prairie land The rivers are forded where shallow, and when too deep for this, rafts are built for men and baggage, while the deer are forced to swim over In winter the ice affords a secure foothold, and from this reason traveling is much better in the cold season than in the summer Reindeer food grows on all parts of the route, so that in any season it is only necessary to turn them out at night and they will be found well fed in the morning "

The Chief Obstructer

Nearly two years have elapsed since the clash of arms ceased, yet the country is not at peace. Whose fault is it? Andrew Johnson's.

When this man became Chief Magistrate the rebels were thoroughly subdued. They expected to suffer the consequences of acts which they knew the law regarded as crimes. The leaders expected to be severely dealt with. They did not think for a moment of claiming any rights under the Government which they had tried to destroy. Their only thought was for their lives. Great numbers of them prepared to quit the country. None expected that they would ever again be allowed to participate in the affairs of Government. At that time they did not prate about their rights, for none had the assurance to suppose that any rights belonged to them. They had not the remotest idea that they would ever again govern their States, sit in Congress, or hold any responsible position whatever. They were well aware of the legitimate consequences of their acts, and expected to meet them. They recognized the right of victorious loyalty to dictate terms, and were fully prepared to bow to the result. Thus for a short time the country was at peace. How is it now?

From suppliants, these men are changed into haughty, insolent and turbulent factionists. From men who did not dream that they had any rights except such as clemency might give them, they are converted into a crowd of brawlers who are continually harping upon their "rights," and who even talk of asserting their "rights" with arms. From men who regarded themselves as defeated traitors, they are transformed into those who claim to be heroes of liberty. From men who fully expected to be forever shut out from power, they are changed into men who assert their right to rule. From a class who supposed themselves utterly defeated, and who had no other idea than that of abiding the result, they are transformed into those who conduct themselves as victors, and who presume to dictate their sovereign pleasure to loyal men. When armed rebellion was ended, the country was at peace. There was every prospect that the peace would be profound and lasting. It was thought that the long battle between freedom and slavery, between loyalty and treason was at an end. But the conflict still continues. What has produced the change that has taken place since the surrender of the rebel armies? The conduct of Andrew Johnson.

For a year past, this man has been the only obstacle in the way of the restoration of the Union. He it was who inspired subdued rebels with new hope and led them to believe that they might effectually resist the just and reasonable demands of loyalty. He it was who first suggested to them the belief that all was not lost, and that they yet might win. Had he not proved an apostate to loyalty, they would never have thought of opposing the requirements of the loyal millions. They would not have ventured a word against the proposed amendment to the Constitution, had they not been prompted to it by the course he has taken. That measure,—even that part of it which disfranchises the rebel leaders,—is not so severe as the conditions they once expected to be required to submit to. They would gladly have accepted it had it not been for his evil counsels. Had he remained true to his declaration that "loyal men shall govern the State," the Union would have been restored long ere this, and peace and harmony effectually secured.

So this man is the chief obstructer. He is responsible for the present unhappy condition of the country. It has been brought about solely through his agency. The difficulties will not be settled during his Administration. Such settlement is impossible while he, the great marplot, has power for mischief. The rebels must put off their arrogance and lower their pride to where it was on the surrender of their armies. This they will not do so long as they believe the man who stands at the head of the Government to be their friend and champion. But when they understand that loyal men are determined to rule, and that they have power to enforce their designs, rebels will yield. The country will then be at peace. But the great stumbling-block must first be got out of the way.

HELP FOR THE STARVING POOR IN THE SOUTHERN STATES.—The New York Evening Post of December 16th, says:

A public meeting is to be held to-morrow with a view to an organized effort for sending speedy relief to considerable numbers of people in the Southern States, who are reported now to be in a starving condition. It is asserted by credible authority that in consequence of the failure of crops following directly upon the desolating effects of the rebellion, there are "not a few districts of country in the South where the present supply of food is insufficient to last 30 days, and where there is neither money nor produce on which to base the expectation of a further supply," that "whole villages are living on the closest rations already," and that "there are thousands of families in South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama who look to the coming winter without hope, and who are actually perishing to-day from starvation. We are sure that an appeal for help for these sufferers will not be made in vain. The same charity which has so often made itself felt among the perishing, without reference to their nationality or their relations with us, will pour out its bounty in copious streams for the relief of our suffering fellow-citizens, without reference to the cause of their calamity. The organization, when formed, will doubtless find most serviceable co-operation from the agents of the Freedmen's Bureau, as well as from the numerous army officers stationed all over the South, who will be as ready to dispense mercy as they are to enforce justice among all classes.

RECORDS OF THE FEDERAL SLAIN.—During the past year the Government has paid great attention to soldiers' graves and cemeteries. Everything that a patriotic respect for the dead could suggest has been done. Every grave has been carefully tended, and its occupant's name and rank put at the head as well as on the records of the cemetery. At first this was done on wooden headboards, but desirous to perpetuate the record of its brave soldiers, Government has now determined to make the headboards more lasting, and has constructed them of iron. The whole number of bodies of Union soldiers reported as buried is 341,670, at an expense of $1,141,791 61. These are buried in cemeteries in the following Military Departments:

|---|---|---|---|
| Eastern | 5,498 | Florida | 1,178 |
| Middle | 16 932 | Tennessee | 67,184 |
| Carolinas | 17 835 | Kentucky | 17,772 |
| Washington | 105 287 | Georgia | 27,590 |
| Ohio | 12 745 | Alabama | 1,733 |
| Missouri | 10 677 | Mississippi | 11,000 |
| Arkansas | 11 029 | Platte | 1,334 |
| Louisiana | 31 000 | Pacific | 109 |
| Texas | 1 523 | | |
| Total | | | 341 670 |

STRONG MINDED BUT PRETTY.—One of the brightest lights of the female suffrage movement is Miss Bessie Bisbee, of Boston, a young woman of about twenty summers, and described by the reporters as having a tall full rounded form, dark brown wavy hair, carnation lips, blue eyes, rosy cheeks, a voice of perfect command, and an easy delivery, etc. In one of her harangues she says: "Over the insults and follies of my sex I could weep to day. Over her confidence hastily given, over her errors which have hung so heavily on the advancement of civilization through all the middle ages, clear away the old superstition which has recognized in woman no excellence out side her embroidery, no sphere of labor outside the circle of flowers. I wish this foolery belonged to the middle ages alone, but enough of it has been transmitted to this generation—(cheers)—enough moonshiny sentiment on her sweet helplessness, and others of praise enough on her quiet fireside influence which moulds the character of statesmen. What ethereal influence do you suppose moulded the character of Andrew Johnson?

At last accounts the Paraguayan war was in progress. The Brazilians were waiting for reinforcements to renew the attack under Marquis de Saxia. The Paraguayans were full of confidence. Minister Washburne was permitted to enter and invited to a state dinner by the President.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

DATES TO JANUARY 18.

Congressional

Bill for the admission of Nebraska was taken up and the question of impartial suffrage was debated at length. [illegible] negatived a call of [illegible] by 28 to 17. The [illegible] was almost equally divided between Democrats and Republicans. It was taken by [illegible] names [illegible]. The highest vote [illegible] was 144 at least [illegible]. They therefore voted to adjourn.

WASHINGTON, Jan 15.—In the Senate Howard of Michigan [illegible] assumed the [illegible] Sumner of Massachusetts [illegible] to extend the [illegible]. McDougall of California [illegible] an amendment instructing [illegible] opinion [illegible]. McDougall said he should [illegible] any such amendment [illegible].

The bill regulating terms of office was then taken up.

WASHINGTON, Jan 15.—The Senate took up the Nebraska bill, and Wade of Ohio moved to concur in the House amendment. Edmunds hoped the Senate would not concur. Either Congress had the right to impose the conditions of universal suffrage or it must be left to the people of the Territories for decision. There was no middle ground.

Johnson of Maryland, agreed with Edmunds. Hendricks, of Indiana, was opposed to all the conditions mentioned. But if any were to be imposed they should be left to the people of the States to comply with. The question was further discussed by Henderson of Missouri, Morrill of Maine and others.

Hendricks of Maryland offered as a substitute for the House amendment what was known as the Brown amendment. Disagreed to—ayes 18, noes 21. The House amendment was then concurred in by 38 to 14.

The noes were Buckalew of Pa., Cowan of Pa., Dixon of Conn., Harris of N. Y., Hendricks of Ind., Johnson of Md., Nesmith of Oregon, Norton of Minn., Patterson of Tenn., Riddle of Del., Saulsbury of Del.

The House considered the Stevens bill for the reconstruction of North Carolina. Paine of Wisconsin, spoke at length in opposition thereto. He denounced the present State government of North Carolina as a government which, up to the present time, had rested on the souls of Andrew Johnson and his Northern and Southern satellites but would henceforth rest on the soul of the rash young gentleman from Pennsylvania, Stevens.

Bingham, of Ohio, opposed the measure because it recognized the power of the people to establish guarantees and safeguards. If the people incorporated into their Constitutions the great amendment proposed by the Reconstruction Committee that did not prevent further Congressional amendments, nor the duty of Congress to give due protection to citizens of the United States within the disorganized States. Let the future safety of the republic stand on the irrepealable guarantee of the Constitution, and not upon repealable legislation in the insurgent States. We would leave the late rebel States alone and form acts for the ratification of the constitutional amendment even though they were not regularly organized States, and the ratification of the acts subsequently by Congress would legalize them. As to the Supreme Court its powers were very limited. It is assailable. It rested upon members of Congress, and could readily be taken away. This bill was very offensive to him. It attempted to restrict the right of petition which the Constitution forbids.

In the Senate to-day, Sumner, of Mass., from Committee on Foreign Relations reported a resolution declaring the coolie trade inhuman and immoral, and that it is the duty of the Government to prevent the further introduction of this trade on this continent and adjacent islands. Agreed to.

Conness, of California, offered a resolution giving the present Postmaster General authority to secure ocean mail service between San Francisco and Portland, three times a week, cost not to exceed $25,000. Referred to Committee on Postoffices.

The Senate refused to take up Howard's resolution inquiring into Mexican affairs.

Sumner stated that he had official and unofficial communications of the departure of the French troops.

Williams of Oregon, presented the memorial of the Oregon Legislature for a branch mint. Ordered on the table.

The House considered the Nebraska bill. Upon motion of Boutwell of Mass. the vote upon the previous question was reconsidered. Boutwell then moved to amend the 3d section, known as the Edmunds' amendment, as follows: "Upon the further fundamental consideration that the Legislature of said State by solemn oath shall declare the assent of said State to said fundamental conditions and shall transmit to the President of the United States an authenticated copy of said act, upon the receipt whereof the President by proclamation shall forthwith announce the adoption of the conditions which shall be held to be part of the organic law of the State and thereupon and without further proceeding on the part of Congress the admission of said State into the Union shall be considered as completed. The said State Legislature shall be convened by the Territorial Governor within 30 days after the passage of this act to act upon the conditions submitted herein." Boutwell spoke in support of his amendment.

The debate was continued by Hale, of New York, Maynard of Tenn., Delano, of Ohio, Farnsworth of Illinois, Higby, of Cal., Kelly, of Pa., Allison of Iowa, Hill, of N. Y., Stevens, of Pa., Raymond of N. Y., Wilson, of Iowa, Bingham, of Ohio, Ashley, of Ohio, and Dawes, of Massachusetts.

The question turned upon the question whether Nebraska should be admitted as a State while her colored population by the constitution were deprived of the elective franchise, and also upon the practical effect of the construction embraced in that section. Boutwell's amendment was adopted by 80 to 70, and the bill passed by 103 to 55.

The bill for the admission of Colorado was taken up, and the same amendment was adopted on motion of Ashley, by a vote of 80 to 60, and the bill passed by 90 to 60.

Fessenden gave notice that he would call up the tariff bill on Monday the 21st inst., expecting to keep the same before the Senate until disposed of. In the House, the amendment to the Colorado bill was concurred in.

Sumner, of Massachusetts, presented a petition from the citizens of Boston for an export tax of one dollar each on paints and oil paintings, and ten per cent. on all pictures valued at $1,000.

NEW YORK, Jan 17.—In the House, on motion of McRuer of California, the Committee on Commerce was instructed to enquire into the existence of a harbor in the vicinity of Point Santa Barbara, and whether it is available for commerce.

Raymond of New York, asked for the amendment of the appropriation bill, striking out the Overland Telegraph subsidy. He argued that there had been no violation of contract. He offered a proviso that the amount paid the company should not exceed the amount actually due for messages. Washburn of Wisconsin objected and offered a proviso that the company should consent to the abrogation of the existing contract on application of the Secretary of the Treasury. The amendment was agreed to and then the appropriation was stricken out.

On motion of Higby of California the Committee on Printing was instructed to inquire into the expediency of printing Ross Browne's Mineral Report in French and German for the Paris exposition.

On motion of Bidwell of California, the Committee on Ways and Means was instructed to inquire into the expediency of making the tariff on imported silks specific instead of ad valorem. The House then considered Stevens' reconstruction bill.

WASHINGTON, Jan 17.—The Senate, by 20 to 15, took up the Niagara Ship Canal bill of last session. Edmunds, of Vermont, moved to strike out the section providing that the act shall not take effect unless the legislature of the State of New York gives its assent within two years. The bill was then made the special order for to-morrow.

Morrill introduced a bill to prevent illegal voting in the District of Columbia, and for other purposes with amendments. The amendments provide for the appointment by the Supreme Court of the District of five judges of election for the parishes of Washington and Georgetown, whose duty it shall be to formally meet prior to each election and to prepare a list of persons qualified to vote in the said cities.

Lane, of Indiana, called up the bill to regulate the appointment of Pension agents. Fessenden, of Maine, said he objected to this kind of legislation contained in the amendment vacating all the offices filled since the 1st of October. The Senate has now spent seven days on the bill regulating the tenure of office. McDougall, of California, to day, spoke against the bill. Willey, of West Virginia, pressed Cowan on the Committee of Appointments(?) whereupon Cowan said it was impossible where so many appointments were to be made to avoid accidental mistakes.

Hendricks of Indiana, replied to the former remarks of Sumner, of Massachusetts denouncing the President for removing men from office who opposed his policy and placing in office men who sympathize with him. He said in nine cases out of ten where the President had removed anybody he had appointed in his place a man who voted the Lincoln and Johnson ticket in 1864. Alluding to the alleged remark of the President, that he would kick certain men out of office, he expressed a doubt as to whether President Johnson used it, though he had not taken upon himself the task of reading all the speeches made by the President on his journey to Chicago and back. Conness, of California reviewed the political differences between the President and Congress saying the responsibility was not with Congress. The President he said, would not have restricted himself to 4000 removals had not the Senate stood in his way.

Doolittle, of Wisconsin, favored the tenure of office during good behavior. The power of removal, whether placed in the Senate or the Executive was liable to abuse. As to the Philadelphia Convention and the gentlemen who participated in it, he claimed for himself and those who voted with him the most patriotic motives. He would not speak at length on this topic, but at some future day expected to prove that the policy of the Administration was the policy of Lincoln, and from which the Republican party had departed.

Howe of Wisconsin, said that inasmuch as his colleague had spent a good deal of time in attempting to demonstrate that problem already and as about two thirds of the people had failed to see it he did not think it would pay for him to try to demonstrate it any more.

The House went into committee of the whole on the legislative appropriation bill. Stevens, of Pa., offered an amendment as an additional section, extending to the Court of Claims the provisions of section 3 of the act of July 1864, which declares that in the Courts of the United States there shall be no exclusion of any witnesses on account of color, nor in civil actions because he is a party interested in the issue of trial. He said the Court of Claims had recently held that it was no Court of the United States therefore the law did not apply to it. The amendment, after a short discussion, was agreed to and the bill was then reported to the House.

After some debate the House rejected by a vote of 51 to 57 an amendment providing that no appropriation shall be made for supplying complete sets of the Congressional Globe to members of any succeeding Congress. A proviso that the United States will furnish at the close of the present Congress the purchase [illegible] to set [illegible] the above for each Senator and Representative was adopted—84 to 56.

The paragraph appropriating $40,000 for the facilitation of telegraphic communication between the Atlantic and Pacific was stricken out. An amendment giving an appropriation for increase of compensation to the clerks and employees of the house was adopted. The bill was then passed. The committee on printing was instructed to consider the expediency of providing for official reports of the proceedings by reporters chosen by each house and for their publication at the Government printing office.

The House Committee on Ways and Means are steadily at work on the Tax bill, and have obtained leave to sit during the session of the House. It is absolutely essential to their political purposes their failure being the President's success while the Republican party follows the Congressmen are already in the current. The chances are two to one that the House sustains the impeachment but scarcely possible that two thirds of the Senate will agree to the removal, but they may suspend him. SAN FRANCISCO, January 18, 1867.

The Board of Health and Quarantine Officers, after a thorough investigation are satisfied there is no contagious disease on board the America. Accordingly at their meeting last evening, they decided to land the passengers as soon as it could successfully and safely be done. The cabin passengers were landed this morning and the steerage passengers will be all well in the to-morrow. The ship and her bedding and furniture will be thoroughly fumigated. When she shall have been so thoroughly cleansed as to remove all danger of sowing the seeds of disease, she will be allowed to come to the wharf. The soldiers were landed on Angel Island yesterday. No new cases are reported and those who are now sick are rapidly recovering. Meigs Wharf and the stores at North Beach have been crowded with people during yesterday and this morning most of whom had friends on board the quarantined ship whom they were anxious to see. The passengers who came on shore to-day were brought up by the steam tug Goliah and landed at Broadway Wharf. Not the slightest danger is apprehended by the physicians who have investigated the matter, of cholera breaking out on shore.

The Pacific distillery at Black Point was partially destroyed by fire this morning. It was owned by Schultz & Vernon and was entirely uninsured. About $2000 worth of material was destroyed, and the further damage to the building and machinery will not fall short of $10,000, while the operations of the establishment will be suspended for at least a month. The cause of the fire is unknown and the mystery is increased from the fact that no fire had been used in the room in which it first broke out.

THE SALE.—There is reason to believe that the rumor of a ... ago prevailing that a large interest if not a controlling interest, in the stock of the O S N Co had been disposed of to Mr Hayward of California, was premature and perhaps incorrect altogether It is true that negotiations for the transfer of stock in that company have been pending between Mr Hayward and some of the stockholders but we think we are correct in saying that, as yet, no sale or purchase has been effected If, however, all that has been talked of between the parties interested should be consummated the controlling interest would still remain in the hands of men who are interested in Portland more than in any other point. In view of these facts we sympathize deeply with those croaking birds of ill-omen at the Dalles and elsewhere who have nearly split their throats shouting huzzas at the imagined downfall of Portland.

RECORDER'S COURT.—The business in the Recorder's Court, yesterday, was as follows

Wm. Chance, a half breed, on a charge of being drunk and disorderly, was convicted and sent to jail for five days.

Carl Bloom keeping waiter girls in a saloon without having procured a license; bail deposited and case continued.

The same, selling liquor without license, discharged He had paid his money for a license on the 12th inst. but had failed to procure his license, being under the belief that he had done all that it was necessary for him to do He paid the costs and will procure his license.

Wm. Chance, on a charge of assault with a deadly ... was held to answer at the next term of the Circuit Court.

A FAITHLESS WIFE.—Yesterday, when the Oriflamme was about to sail, one of those scenes occurred which serve to weaken faith in human truth and fidelity—the attempted elopement of a wife with another man than her husband As we learned the circumstances, she had left her house clandestinely, but her husband suspecting something of the truth pursued and overtook the guilty pair on the steamer Failing to induce his wife to go back with him, he started up town for the purpose of getting a writ by which to detain her, but before he could get back to the wharf, the steamer had gone taking the faithless wife and her seducer beyond the husband's reach He ought to think himself happily rid of a false woman ... he did not seem to take that view of the case.

THE BILLIARD MATCH.—The match game of billiards between Foster and Murray, was played last evening, as per announcement the latter winning the game and stakes by one hundred and twenty points. It was the American carom game, Foster discounting his opponent The greatest run made by either player did not exceed thirty Foster is said to have often played more than a hundred per cent. better game, for the table. Murray obtained the lead before turning the first string, and kept it throughout. Both the time and the runs have often been beaten in this city by amateurs.

ARMY OFFICERS FOR THIS COAST.—The New York correspondent of the Alta, writing December 5th, says that a large number of newly appointed subaltern officers would sail from that city in a few days to join their regiments on the Pacific coast. In this Department the greater part of the companies have been insufficient to a considerable degree, on account of being insufficiently officered We doubt if they average two officers to the company The reinforcement mentioned above will be greatly beneficial to the service, beside being a welcome relief to the officers who are now doing extra service

JUST AS THE PRESENT.—A California paper reproduces from the London Spectator, the anxious inquiry,—"Should women ride astride." Now, we are not an ... to settle that startlingly important question for ... ladies, nor for the ladies of Sacramento or San ..., but for the ladies of Portland we unhesitatingly answer, if she don't want to do it, she ought not to be compelled to do it. We take it, that is an orthodox opinion in which we will be sustained by all the ladies who ride.

IMPORTANT TO PHOTOGRAPHERS.—Bromine has of late years been used in collodion by photographers. The discoverer of this chemical combination has, for the last twelve years been engaged in vindicating his rights ... in the Courts, and has finally triumphed He now claims the exclusive right to use and vend it, and ... that all who infringe upon his patent will be ... This will be a mater of some interest to photographers

NOON-DAY MEETINGS.—The daily noon-day prayer meetings ... a month or more ago, are still continued Daily meetings have been held at the M E Church for the last two weeks, and several persons have been added to the ... Considerable interest has been awakened. Extra services have been held recently in some of the other churches of the city

MASONIC LODGE.—At the institution of Hassalo Lodge I. O. O. F., in this city, the R. W Grand Master gave it the number "21." Since that time the institution of a lodge on a prior day by a District Deputy, has been heard of, and consequently Hassalo Lodge must take the number 15, by which it will hereafter be known

THE ORIFLAMME'S FREIGHT LIST.—The following is a list of the freight per Oriflamme to San Francisco 3,627 boxes apples, 9 335 qr sks flour 1 134 sacks wheat 100 ... produce 141 packages mdse 20 rolls leather 14 hides, 16 dressed beaves

THE FIRST LECTURE.—We understand that the first of the approaching course of lectures announced to be delivered in this city, will be delivered by Hon J H Mitchell.

EXAMINATION THIS MORNING.—The charge against John Daly, of an assault with intent to kill Louis Schaffer will be examined this morning at 10 o clock in the Recorder's Court.

The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee, neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions the sale of which daily increases The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise which commands here and in the markets of the interior a relatively higher price excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who by counterfeit or imitation of his mark seek to deceive the public palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE This fraud can deceive nobody after trial but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters Nevertheless, buyers should be forewarned and placed on their guard against this practice

First Steam Voyage Across the Atlantic

In 1818 there flourished in Savannah, Georgia the wealthy and enterprising commercial house of Scarborough & Isaacs The head of the house had great confidence that at no distant date the ocean would be navigated by steam He came to New York and purchased a ship of about 350 tons then on the stocks and as a deserved compliment to his State and city named her Savannah and determined with her to try the experiment of crossing the ocean without sails. In casting about for the right kind of men to assist him, he fixed upon Capt Moses Rogers a person of great mechanical skill and ingenuity who had been familiar and identified with the experiments of Fulton, but he was not a sea navigator A thoroughly experienced and practical sailor was now wanted, and just such a man was found in the person of Captain Stevens Rogers After having been furnished with an engine by Stephen Vail of Morristown, conjointly with Daniel Dodd, of Elizabethtown, the Savannah was placed under the joint command of the two Captains Rogers, the one to superintend and direct her machinery, the other to act as sailing master They were two as intrepid and able men as the country could afford, and under their direction the ship sailed for Savannah on the 20th of March, 1819 The trial trip was highly successful The vessel then proceeded to Charleston, and after being lionized there for a short time, took Jas Monroe then President of the United States to Savannah On the 20th of May, she sailed direct for Liverpool, making the passage in 22 days, 18 of which were under steam, some economy of fuel being deemed advisable, lest the supply should be exhausted

During the voyage across the Atlantic several amusing incidents occurred, but we have room only for the two following obtained directly from the officers in command When the ship was approaching Cape Clear under steam she was discovered by the officers of the telegraph station, and was reported to the Admiral in command at Cork as a ship on fire The Admiral at once dispatched a fast cutter, well manned to her relief, but great was their wonder at their total inability, under all sail and with a good breeze, to come up with a ship under bare poles After several shots had been fired from the cutter, the engine of the ship was stopped, and the cutter permitted to approach, when her officers were invited on board to examine and admire the new invention Soon after dropping her anchor in the harbor of Liverpool, a boat, manned with sailors in naval uniform, commanded by a Lieutenant, came alongside, and the officer, in a tone more authoritative than pleasing, demanded of the first man he saw "Where is your master?" "I have no master," replied the American "Where is your Captain, then, sir?" "He is below, sir," was the reply On reaching the deck, Captain Rogers asked the Englishman what he wanted The officer replied "My commander demands to know by what authority you wear that pennant, sir?" pointing with his sword to a coach whip pennant flying at the mainmast head To this the Captain replied "By the authority of my Government, which is republican, and permits me to do so" The officer then remarked that his commander considered it as an insult to him, and commanding the American to haul down the pennant, intimated that if it was not quickly done he would be supplied with help This was a little too harsh for Yankee spirit to endure, and Rogers instantly gave the order to haul down the coach-whip and apply its place with a broad blue pennant, such as were worn by the commanders of squadrons in our own navy, and ranking with the highest grade in that of the British, and then, in a loud tone of voice—so that he might be heard by the English—he directed the engineer to get the hot-water pipes ready. This order had the desired effect, although there was no such apparatus on board, and the gallant Lieutenant and his crew pulled for dear life. The hot water jets which were subsequently leveled at the British officers caused them to start upon an early cruise.

The Savannah attracted great attention at Liverpool, was visited by the authorities, and as her fame spread to London, the crown officers, noblemen and many leading merchants visited her The officers were very anxious to ascertain her speed, her errand and her destination It was suspected by some that her design was to rescue Napoleon Bonaparte, then a prisoner at St Helena, his brother Jerome having offered for that purpose a large sum. They were carefully watched by the British Government, and ships of war were stationed at certain points for that purpose, which for a time prevented her departure from Liverpool.

She finally proceeded to Copenhagen, where she excited great manifestations of wonder and curiosity. Thence she proceeded to Stockholm, where she was visited by the royal family Ministers of State and naval officers, who, by invitation, dined on board and took an excursion among the neighboring islands, with which they were delighted She then proceeded to St Petersburg, having on board as a passenger one Lord Lyndock, who was so much pleased with the performance of the steamship that he presented to each of her officers some token of his esteem. To her sailing master was presented an elegant snuff box of pure and massive gold, on the cover of which, inlaid in platina, was a representation of Peter the Great asleep upon his horse, standing on the rock from which he viewed the Swedish army, with the serpent biting the heel of the horse, which awoke him in time to successfully attack the Swedes At the bottom of the snuff box was this inscription "Presented by Sir Thomas Graham, Lord Lyndock, to Stevens Rogers, sailing master of the steamship Savannah, at St. Petersburgh, October 10, 1819. Lord Lyndock had taken passage on the steamer, by invitation of Christopher Hughes, then American Minister in Sweden.

Upon her arrival at St Petersburg the vessel was visited by the entire court, who tested her qualities by a trip to Cronstadt, and so well pleased was the Emperor that the officers were treated with marked attention. They were invited to be present at a review of eighty thousand troops by the Emperor in person, and a frigate of the largest class was launched on the "Camela," and taken down to Cronstadt as an exhibition of the progress of the arts in Russia The Emperor solicited Captain Stevens Rogers to remain in the Russian seas with his steamer, offering him the protection of the government and the exclusive navigation of the Black and Baltic seas for a number of years, and to Capt. Moses Rogers the Emperor presented a handsome silver tea kettle From St. Petersburg the Savannah sailed for Arendel, in Norway, and thence to Savannah, making the passage in twenty five days Thus ended the first voyage ever made across the Atlantic by a steamship. That was forty-seven years ago, and the history of ocean steam navigation during that eventful period will form one of the most important and interesting chapters in our annals of prosperity.

The chart used by Captain Rogers during his voyage, as well as the log book of the Savannah were solicited by the navy department about the year 1848, and it is believed that they are now in the safe keeping of the department in Washington. Having been unfortunate in losing much of their property by fire, the owners of the Savannah sent her to New York, where she was sold Her engine was taken out by the proprietors of the Allaire Works, and on the opening of the Crystal Palace in New York her cylinder was presented by them for exhibition, and it remained until the place was consumed by fire, although a fac simile of the cylinder and an engraving of the ship are in existence and in the hands of the Captain of the Savannah.

Captain Rogers is still living, and resides in New London, Connecticut He is now seventy-eight years of age, a fine specimen of an old fashioned ship master—some six feet in hight and of stalwart proportions He is said to be a most exemplary and excellent man, and to be universally respected and esteemed When quite young he was imprisoned by a British man of war, and on being released he determined afterwards to have his credentials of citizenship always with him—so he had imprinted on his arm his name, the date and place of his birth, and the figure of a hand pointing to the American flag Those credentials are indelible, and will remain until his strong arm shall molder into dust.

If Congress should make a handsome testimonial to Captain Stephen Rogers and the children of Captain Moses Rogers, who has long since been dead, the people would say amen It would be an act of simple justice, of duty and of pride, and might be made in money or in land, And if our merchant princes, whose wealth now cover the ocean with splendid steamers, were only to speak the word, they might do much to soften the down hill of life of their pioneer upon the sea

BATTLE ROYAL —The members of the royal family of Bavaria are all at loggerheads Prince Charles, the late commander of the Federal army has resigned, not only all his offices and military honors at home, but also those he held in foreign armies And young King Louis intends to make up in music and theater for all the losses he sustained in politics Mother, uncle and aunts are of no avail against his extravagances In despair they sent for the grandpa ex King Louis I of Lola Montes memory. Grandpa and grandchild quarreled now in royal style together; but when the old man, guilty of all kinds of extravagances himself, became too excited, the young monarch haughtily replied

"Grandpa, do you know who I am?"

"Undoubtedly" replied Louis I, "you are his Majesty, the king But do you know who I am? I was king myself, and am nothing to day but a private man, and you have the best chance of becoming that yourself ere long"

RUFUS CHOATE AND A GRATEFUL CLIENT.—The Yankee master of a coasting vessel was on a run into by a steamer and so serious was the collision that not only was the craft badly crippled but its worthy master almost came to an untimely end He was not far from port when the catastrophe took place so, hastening to the city he demanded of the steamboat company damages, which they refused to pay His rage knew no bounds He would have justice Starting up town he inquired for the best lawyer in the city He was directed to Choate & Bell Finding the place he strode in and asked if Squire Choate was in, He received a reply that Mr Choate was in but was engaged inside and at the same time services were offered by one of the lawyers in the outer office

"No said he "I don t want any understrapper I came here to see Mr Choate

In a short time he was told that he could see Mr Choate Proceeding to Mr C s room he offered his large hand to the great lawyer, with the remark How are yo, Squire? I ve got a big case for yo"

Mr Choate found that he had an original character to deal with, and listened to his complaint Mr C wrote a letter and told him to take it to the Company, but our friend objected

"No that won t do just slap a writ on to um Yes, write um a letter, and they ll put their property out of their hands That s the way the lawyers do down home Put um through"

After some persuasion on the part of Mr Choate our friend reluctantly took the letter and departed for the other party

When they saw the letter, written in those unintelligible crow tracks with that unique signature of Rufus Choate, a terror of all having an acquaintance with the Court when he appeared as an opponent, they quickly settled with the Captain on his own terms

Our friend was mightily pleased and his gratitude to Mr Choate knew no bounds Rushing into that gentleman s office, he said most eagerly—

"Squire yer got um, forked right over What s yer bill?"

Mr Choate replied that as he had spent no time he would charge him nothing The Captain was indignant

"That ain't the way we do business down our way I can afford to pay you well, and I will", He drew a dollar from his pocket, and pushing it toward the great attorney, said "Squire, you did a big thing for me, and I will pay you well for it, here is a dollar, 'taint a cent too much!"

NAPOLEON COULDN'T SMOKE —Napoleon could scale the Alps, but, alackaday, he could not smoke

In Egypt he pretended to smoke—as he held out his possible conversion to Islamism—to please the Egyptians by adopting their customs But he never could light his pipe himself It was his Mameluke Roustan's duty to set it going If his master let it go out again, charcoal and matches were not ruinously expensive

Afterward, when the Persian Embassador presented him with a very handsome pipe, he ordered his valet de chambre, Constant, to fill and light it. The fire being applied to the mouth of the bowl, all that remained was to make the tobacco catch, but in the way in which his Majesty set about it, no smoke would have appeared from that time till doomsday He simply closed and opened his lips, without drawing the least in the world.

"What the deuce!" he exclaimed at last "There is no setting light to it"

Constant diffidently ventured to observe that the Emperor did not proceed exactly in the usual way, and showed him the right mode of going to work, but the inapt scholar still returned to his bad imitation of the act of yawning Tired at last of his useless efforts, "Constant," he blurted out, "do you light the pipe I cannot"

So said, so done It was returned to him with the steam well up, going at a high pressure rate with a double Persian power of smoke Scarcely had he drawn a whiff, when the smoke, which he did not know how to get rid of went down his throat, coming out of his mouth and eyes As soon as he had recovered his breath, "Take it away" he gasped, "take it away! What an infernal! What a set of pigs they must be! It has turned my stomach!"

He was ill for more than an hour afterward, and he renounced forever "a pleasure whose enjoyment," he said, "was only good to fill up the time of idle people with nothing better to do"

A tall, raw boned Yankee was riding a diminutive specimen of the donkey tribe through the muddy streets of Gotham, and the animal being very stubborn, Jonathan found it quite difficult to induce him to accelerate his pace He used the persuasive eloquence of a hickory stick, however, and at each blow he would drawl out, "Get up, Bonaparte, get up, I say" A little French man, in passing, heard, with rage the name of his illustrious countryman applied to the ugly beast, and commenced heaping a volley of curses upon the head of the offending Yankee

"Sair," shouted the Gaul, "Vot for you sall call that ugly beast Napoleon! Sair, I shall have ze grande satisfaction."

"Git up, Bonypart!" was the only response.

"Sacre! monsieur, Sair! I say, what for you sall call ze vagabone horse Napoleon?"

"Git up, Bonypart!"

Here the Frenchman's rage boiled over, and stamping his feet upon the pavement, he screamed

"Ou, I shall have ze grand satisfaction! I shall have ze revenge I have one lettle sheep dog at home, I go call him Guillaume Washington!"

A TELEGRAPHIC ANECDOTE —An English paper tells a story of a singular application of the telegraph, which may well go into the permanent annals of the electric wire. The special correspondent in London of a Glasgow paper was accustomed every evening at a late hour to bring his dispatch to the telegraph office in the upper story of a high building, the street door of which was closed at a certain hour and attended after that by a porter This functionary, on the occasion in question, went sound asleep, and the most energetic poundings of the correspondent on the door were unsuccessful in awakening him to his duty After half an hour or so of increasing impatience, the correspondent hit upon a novel idea. He went to an adjoining telegraph station and sent a message to Glasgow requesting the clerk there to telegraph to the clerk in the inaccessible upper story in London to go down stairs and awaken the porter This was done with entire success in about twenty minutes, the message traversing a distance of over four hundred miles to arouse a man only separated from the visitor by a door

"Well, Bridget, if I engage you, I shall want you to stay at home whenever I shall wish to go out"

"Well, ma'am, I have no objections," said Bridget, "providin' you do the same when I wish to go out."

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

WEEKLY REVIEW

PORTLAND FRIDAY 21 M Jan 18 1867

The latest New York quotation for gold is 134¼. The San Francisco price of legal tenders is [illegible]

In our local market there are few changes to note Business dull The tendency of wheat [illegible] is still downward Oregon [illegible] Flour is dull at quotations There is a slight falling off in Rio at [illegible] Nails [illegible] firm

In reference to the flour market we [illegible] the following in the latest San Francisco market reports

Apart from the usual [illegible] very little is doing for export There is a fair [illegible] out of superfine [illegible] Extra [illegible] at $6 50@6 62½ [illegible] Oregon extra in sacks at $4 [illegible]

The following appears as editorial in the Bulletin of the 11th

The shipment of some 5,000 barrels of California flour to New York by to-morrow s steamer is a new feature in San Francisco exports The Pacific Mail Steamship Company with that consideration for California interests which really actuates the management whatever may be said to the contrary have with a view of helping the farmers to dispose of their surplus produce undertaken to carry flour to New York over the Isthmus at $1 per barrel When we remember that the scarcity of shipping is operating on prices and keeping them much below what they otherwise would be the value of this reduction will be appreciated

The margin of profit on flour so shipped is necessarily small but the speed with which the transportation is accomplished lessens the risk and makes the transaction more certain than if protracted over a longer period If this liberality is responded to and has the expected effect of creating a sufficient traffic the company will doubtless carry out the idea that has so often been spoken of and put on a class of boats especially adapted for freight which will also give the company an opportunity of carrying passengers to and from the East by the above vessels at still lower rates, and so promote immigration while developing our produce trade

The following is from the New York trade report of the 11th

Flour—heavy unsettled and 10 cents lower Trade brands $12 70@$14

Wheat—dull and drooping White California, $3 00, White Canada $3 10; Amber White State, $3 20

On the whole the prospects are very dull for realizing any profits on our wheat and flour shipments. Prices are nominally the same as last week, but really very little is doing The Oriflamme will sail this evening with a fair freight of apples, flour and a limited quantity of wheat but we are not able, before the hour of sailing, to state the figures.

Horrible Diseases.

How many thousands of persons, both male and female, are there who are suffering out a miserable existence from the effects of secret indulgences, or from virus absorbed into the system Look at their pallid, emaciated and disfigured faces and their broken-down constitutions, disqualifying them for the happiness of marriage or the enjoyment of life In this horrid situation thousands suffer until death closes the scene Let parents, guardians, friends attend to those who are suffering with any of these horrible life-destroying maladies—see that they are cured for and cured before it be too late Send them immediately to Doctor Gibbon a physician who has made private disease his especial study for years, and who is certain to cure the most inveterate cases without mercury or any injurious drugs It is important to those who are afflicted, or to those who are interested in the welfare of their friends, to be careful of the many pretended doctors who infest all cities, publishing their skill in curing all diseases in a few days, imposing upon the public by using the names of eminent physicians from Europe and other places Be therefore careful and make strict inquiry, or you may fall into the hands of those charlatans
